

LIFE SENTENCES FOR TWO TWENTY FIVE YEARS FOR THIRD

Second Trial of Train Robbers Lasted Only Two Hours—Jury Reached Verdict in a Half Hour

Kamloops, June 2.—After a half hour's consideration of the train robbers case the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The second trial lasted two hours. The judge traversed the other charge against Dunn, and McIntyre made the formal exception to the verdict on the ground set out in his application for a postponement and change of venue. The prisoners said they had nothing to say and the judge proceeded to sentence them. He said, "The case against you was very clear. I agree with the verdict and the sentence of this court is that you, George Edwards, be confined in the penitentiary for life; you William Dunn for life; and you Lewis Colquhoun for twenty-five years."

"Shorty" Dunn had broken down under the strain and was under the care of the goal surgeon. Yesterday he had become hysterical and was brought around with difficulty. All the prisoners show the effects of the strain. Colquhoun bears up better than the others. This is the climax of a life of forty years on Miner's part devoted to stage robbery and train holdups. He has spent much of his life in prison. Dunn is known to be a desperate character and the slayer of a sheriff in Nevada. The third man bears the reputation of being a quiet, inoffensive character and was never known to keep evil associations until found in the camp of the robbers. The man hunt following the crime was one of the most exciting in the history of the west. Two hundred men were engaged in it and they were stimulated by rewards aggregating $15,000.

A BRAVE SCOT WIT SILLER.

Chas. McLean, a brave Scot with his weather still in his hair, who recently arrived in the city, is out with a challenge to anybody in Edmonton for a shot-putting contest or a general all-round athletic competition, and wants a game within the next two weeks. McLean is a big man and looks as though he should be able to put the 16-pound shot as far as he had a mind to, but it is reported that there is another local man who has some pretensions as a shot-putter, and in fact it was out of a discussion with regard to the relative capabilities of the two men that the challenge arose. McLean ventured to suggest that there might be one or two men in America who had the best of him with the 16 pound shot, but not many. Dan Tidmarsh, of the blue, offered to find $500 to say that there was a man right in the city who could do it. McLean, being a canny Scot, said he "wud na' bet wi' all he had," but would put up $100 on himself and would easily find a couple of others to do the same. He is ready to deposit his money with the Bulletin whenever terms for a match can be arranged.

STRATHCONA OFFERS INDUCEMENTS TO BE MADE DIVISIONAL POINT

Free Site and Fifteen Year Exemption if Company Will Erect Round House and Car Shops

Strathcona, June 1.—The town council had a conference last Wednesday evening in the town hall with Messrs. Jamieson Brooks, and Allison, of the C. P. R. in reference to the company making Calgary the chief divisional point north of Calgary for Alberta. The council offers them exemption from taxation for fifteen years of all the C. P. R. land in the town used for railway purposes, and a free site costing $37,000 for their shops and terminals. This property 72 acres, is situated south of the town near the "Y". The C. P. R. officials on their part agree to make Strathcona the chief divisional point, and erect round-house, shops, etc. Should any removal take place the company is to buy the property from the town as a bonus. Secretary Treasurer Downes and the mayor have signed the agreement and sent it on to the executive of the C. P. R. for signature. A petition, which is being largely signed, is now in circulation asking the council to submit the question to the ratepayers for their endorsement. The action of the council in the matter is generally commended by the citizens and the immediate result is the advance of real estate prices.

Daring Holdup on Rat Creek Road

Hold up at the muzzle of two revolvers, relieved of his cash and forced to drive on is the story which Alex. Sutter had to give the police at a very early hour on Friday morning. The story was withheld for 24 hours partly because the police believed they could lay their hands on the man, and partly because Mr. Sutter did not wish his wife, who is now in Battleford, to get the story before he had time to write and assure her that he escaped none the worse, except in a financial sense from his hair-raising experience. Alex. Sutter or "Dick" as the boys call him, drives a hack for the Windsor livery and his duties frequently call him to more or less unfrequented parts of the city at unseasonable hours. On Friday morning at 2:10 o'clock he was rattling across the Rat Creek bridge at the head of Kinsington when he noticed two men in the half darkness at the side of the road. "Hey, there," one of them called. Mr. Sutter stopped and the two walked toward the cab. "Anybody inside?" asked one of them. "No," said Mr. Sutter, still unsuspecting. One of the men stepped to the horses' heads while the other went to the side of the cab and opened the door. Finding no one inside, he put his foot on the wheel and swung himself up toward the box. When Mr. Sutter looked around to see what was doing, he was staring straight into the muzzle of a 41. "Hands up and climb down," was all the man said. Mr. Sutter is a rather portly gentleman and not built for athletics, but he admits that he did not waste any fleeting moments in complying with the demand. Having reached the road he was asked to take a step or two forward. Then hold-up man No. 2 entered the cab. With one hand he held the horses' heads, and with the other he held a dangerous looking piece of artillery pointed directly between Mr. Sutter's eyes. No. 1 did the searching, and he wasted no time. Mr. Sutter says that the alacrity and precision with which the man went through his clothing for money proved beyond a doubt that he was an underfoot at the game. In an inside pocket the desperado found $27 in bills which he appropriated. He did not attempt to take the watch, never even looked at it. The whole transaction, from start to finish, did not take over three minutes, at the end of which brief time Mr. Sutter found himself back on the box, $27 lesser and the hold-up men nowhere in sight. Driving to town Mr. Sutter reported the matter to Officer MacPherson. The police have since been making a vigilant search but have been unable to land any suspects. Mr. Sutter states that he could not identify the men unless it was the one who spoke, by his voice. One of them was tall and the other a short man, but in the darkness he could not tell much about their clothes and their masks concealed their faces.

WHERE DID COMMISSIONER GET AUTHORITY?

As has heretofore been reported when the civic workmen presented themselves for their many last Saturday evening seven of them were refused their pay by the secretary-treasurer. When interviewed about the matter on Monday last, Secretary-Treasurer Kinnaird stated positively to The Bulletin that he had refused to issue the pay because he had no authorization to do so.

At the council meeting on Tuesday evening a motion was before the board instructing the secretary-treasurer to pay the men, when Ald. Picard moved for an adjournment. The motion was assented to and the men were not given payment of the money was not any more authorized by the council after the meeting than it was before. On Thursday a new feature was projected into the situation, as checks were issued to three or four of the men whose pay was held up last Saturday, and yesterday the balance of them were paid.

BUILDING PASSES HALF MILLION

Edmonton Will Take Forth Place in the Building Line in Canada This Year

January	$12,386
February	57,755
March	102,828
April	216,227
May	151,646

Total.....$540,936
Total to June 1st, 1906.....$125,021

The building permits issued to date are well past the half million mark and there is now ample assurance, with what is already in sight, that the total building for the year is going to go away over the million mark. In all probability the total for last year will be exceeded within the present month, and that from now to the 1st of November every month will pass the two hundred thousand mark.

The total for May was not quite as large as might have been expected, for several reasons. At the commencement of the month there was a possibility of labor trouble. The carpenters were asking 8 hours and the master builders were refusing. There was some uncertainty, which, of course, could not be beneficial to the building trade. Then for the first fifteen days of the month the weather was very wet and building operations could not be carried on as rapidly as had been the case in April. Added to this, the "Prisco" fire has had the effect of making Coast lumber scarce on this side of the range and the local mills are away behind with their orders so that a great many buildings in different stages of construction, are held up by lack of lumber. Brick has also been scarce during the past three weeks. The Anderson yards are undergoing a general changing over, installing much larger machinery and making arrangements to carry on business on an enormous scale. In the meantime they are making no brick and the other yards cannot keep up with the demand.

For all of these reasons business has been seriously held back during the month of May and the total of permits at least $100,000 below what is should have been. However, builders say that there should be plenty of material this month and as the carpenters and builders have amply adjusted their affairs and it is now an eight-hour day all over the city, there is nothing to prevent June being another record month.

For the year 1905, Edmonton held seventh place in building in Canada. For 1906 it is holding fifth place so far and in all probability will reach fourth before the close of the season. The following are the official figures of the building returns in the different cities of the Dominion last year, showing where Edmonton stood:

Winnipeg	$10,829,309
Toronto	10,347,915
Montreal	5,500,698
Vancouver	2,653,000
Hamilton	1,510,382

Conspirators Warn King Alfonso That They Will Try Again

Madrid June 1.—The man who threw the bomb at the King has been arrested. The prisoners have made a confession. A number of royal personages, soldiers, and citizens made a rush toward the house in the hope of catching him. Alfonso himself was one of the first to reach the murderer. He leaped from the carriage and ran toward the house, but soldiers surrounded the entrance and persuaded him to return to his fainting bride.

On reaching the palace after the explosion he sent adjutants to assist the wounded and sent officers among the families of the victims to assist the sufferers. Queen Christina, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and Archduchess Francis of Austria had reached the palace and were waiting for the King and Queen with the Infanta. When the time elapsed without the royal coach appearing the Prince of Wales and the Infanta became deeply anxious and they were more disturbed when they saw the empty coach arrive with bloody horses.

Letters were received in government quarters last night asserting that this would not be the last attempt as the band of conspirators had declared its intention to keep up the efforts. The tragic event has already cast deep gloom over the festivities and the people no longer show liveliness and hilarity. There was a magnificent display of fireworks with almost singing and dancing last night, but they proceeded with lack of spirit.

Counsel for Dr. McGibbon Objects that Accused Should Not Judge Their Own Case

The meeting of the city council which was held last night for the purpose of holding an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the isolation hospital and the charges of gross negligence and incapability on the part of city officials, did not investigate.

The members of the council were all there. Dr. McGibbon was present with Wm. Short, as counsel, and Mr. Merkle, the nurse, as witness, while Dr. Braithwaite was present with J. C. F. Wown as counsel. An unusually large number of citizens were present to hear the proceedings and awaited the commencement of the investigation with apparent interest. When the mayor took the chair Dr. Braithwaite asked that he be supplied with counsel, which was granted. Ald. Griesbach opposing the motion.

Ald. Picard moved that council resolve itself into a committee of inquiry and that counsel be retained in the defence of the city officials.

Ald. Griesbach asked why the city solicitor should not act.

Mr. Beck said that he himself was acting as a city official and as city solicitor would probably have to give advice to the city, which would require an unbiased attitude toward the case, which would hardly be possible providing he were acting as counsel for the defence.

Ald. Griesbach said it should not go

GRIERSON FARM
BRINGS A PRICESold to Syndicate Who Will Subdivide
It Into Town Lots

George H. Handley, acting for Minneapolis and Winnipeg capitalists, closed a deal with E. D. Grierson, of the Alberta Hotel, yesterday, for the purchase of the northwest quarter of section 15 and the northeast quarter of 16, being 289 acres lying to the north of the town and adjoining the Dillon and Mardonville properties on the north at $250 an acre.

The people for whom Mr. Handley bought intend to subdivide and place the property on the market. A gang of men was started to work this morning to break and clear out the underbrush on the entire territory, preparing the shade trees. The survey will be made in the immediate future.

Mr. Handley has already had considerable experience in the real estate line in this city. He bought and turned down the Great West Imperial property at a handsome profit last fall for the same parties for whom he is now working.

The Grierson property is 31.2 miles from Jasper avenue. Mr. Handley figures that the town is going to grow north, because there is nowhere else for it to grow and that the Grierson property should sell because people will need it.

MOCK PARLIAMENT.

The second session of the Young Liberal Club's mock parliament was held last evening and the debate on the address was completed, a division being reached about eleven o'clock. The debate was carried on in a spirited manner and those taking part acquitted themselves very creditably; many real parliamentarians have done no better.

Hon. W. T. Finlay, Minister of Agriculture was present and occupied a seat beside the Speaker. At the close of the session he was invited to address the assembly and in a neat speech congratulated the club on the success of their venture. "It is work such as this Young Liberal Club is doing," he said, "that will lay the future success of Liberalism in this province." He also pointed out that a discussion such as he had just listened to would be very valuable to the members, inasmuch as it would inform them on public questions and he had no doubt that members of this mock parliament would find their way into the legislature.

The first business of the session was to give their first reading to the bill to increase the representation and to construct a railway from Edmonton to Vermilion. Three bills will come up for a second reading next Friday evening.

The debate on the address was resumed by the member for Glenora (Greene). He made an excellent speech reviewing the proposed legislation very carefully and concluded with the following announcement:

Moved by member for Glenora—That is House views with disfavor the proposal of the Government to loan money to the Government of Alberta.

The speaker (Bolton) made a good argumentative appeal on the government policy. He elicited out the proposal of the Government to loan money to the Government of Alberta. He was followed by the member for Rosedale (Lefebvre) who replied effectively and called the opposition to task for criticizing the details of the government proposals before these details were known to the House.

The member for Watawin (Harrison) spoke next. He chaffed the mover and second of the address, and commented very unfavorably upon the policy of the government as outlined in the speech. The final speaker was the member for Ponoka (Landry). He made the speech of the evening. It was a really brilliant effort. He paid particular attention to the member for Peace River, going after him in good style. The independent member for Leduc (Walker) followed in a speech in which he expressed the opinion that the whole House was wrong, with perhaps a single exception. He criticized the insurance policy of the government and moved the following amendment to the amendment:

Moved by member for Leduc—That this legislature view with regret and disfavor, the clause in the speech from the Throne, referring to government system of insurance.

The leader of the opposition followed in a speech reviewing the whole matter in which he showed himself quite ready to retort to interruptions. The speaker closed with a brief speech explaining that when the bills were introduced the details of the government policy would be found to be in the best interests of the country.

The last amendment was lost on division, the first one was defeated by a vote of 13 to 7. The House adjourned to meet on Friday evening, June 5th, at 8 p.m., when the public, both ladies and gentlemen are invited to attend.

COUNCIL HELD ENQUIRY

on the minutes of the council that the city was retaining counsel to defend the city officials, and voted against the motion, which was carried.

Mr. Wm. Short, acting as counsel for Dr. McGibbon said that he thought the council was in an anomalous position. The council by its own admission was, he accused; that the council retained counsel to defend itself and that it then sat as judges of its own case. He did not charge any unfairness, but he thought it established a precedent and he expressed an amendment that a provision allowing such a thing should have found its way into the charter. He asked if the council, sitting as judges on their own case, could be fair? Some of the aldermen had already, according to newspaper report, expressed themselves very strongly on the matter already. He did not think that these aldermen could very well be unbiased judges.

Ald. Griesbach said that he would like to know what the matter was that was to be tried.

Mr. Bowen, acting as counsel for Dr. Braithwait, asked that if the inquiry was to go forward that the charges whatever they were should be laid in writing so that they could have something definite to go on.

Mr. Short said that as they were there at the invitation of the council he would suggest that the council should point out what the charges were. He suggested that as the city had employed counsel to defend the city officials, they should retain counsel in the interests of Dr. McGibbon.

Ald. Manson said that they were here at the advice of the city solicitor, who stated that the council had the power to hold such an inquiry.

The city solicitor said that he had given an opinion in writing, pointing out two ways in which the inquiry could be held. He had stated a preference for an inquiry before a judge but there was a press of work before the courts and that the matter would hardly be reached before it would be stale. He left it to the council to say whether or not the inquiry would proceed.

Ald. Bellamy said that unless the inquiry was satisfactory to both sides there was no use holding it. It was up to the council for both sides to say if the inquiry was satisfactory. If not they should adjourn.

Ald. Griesbach was in favor of the inquiry going ahead but he wanted to see it go ahead properly.

Ald. Manson suggested that the council might hear the evidence in the case and then they could decide whether or not there was anything for an inquiry.

Mr. Short said if the council was prepared to go on they would submit their case.

Mayor May—"But your protest is still there."
Mr. Short—"Yes."

Ald. Picard said that having heard the protest and being in favor of the charges being heard before a judge he would move that the committee rise and report to the council.

Ald. Mays seconded the motion. Mayor May expressed the opinion that he would prefer to have the matter go before a judge.

Ald. Griesbach moved in amendment that the city solicitor be asked to prepare the questions on which the inquiry should be based.

Ald. Griesbach's amendment was lost and Ald. Picard's motion carried.

Mayor May asked that inasmuch as the council had decided not to go forward with the inquiry tonight, what course they proposed for the future.

Ald. Bellamy moved that the council adjourn.

Ald. Picard moved that the matter be taken before a judge.

As this required a formal resolution Ald. Picard asked the city solicitor to prepare the resolution. Mr. Beck had consumed eight or ten minutes researching the charter amendments for the data on which to frame the resolution when Ald. Bellamy again moved a motion to adjourn. The motion was carried and the council adjourned.

CANADA WILLSEND THE MONEY

No Objection Will Be Made To Forwarding Sum Through Non-Official Source

Ottawa, June 1—Deputy Governor Sedgwick attended in the Senate today and gave assent to a number of bills passed this session. Among them was the $100,000 grant to San Francisco sufferers. The money is now ready to be forwarded and as there will be no objection from the United States government it will be sent at once. The probability is it will go to the Red Cross society.

The Government received information from Washington that there would be no objection notwithstanding what President Roosevelt has already said on the subject to Canada sending the $100,000 which the government offered to the San Francisco sufferers to any responsible body in the United States so that it could be utilized for the purposes for which it is intended. That being the case, the amount was voted this afternoon by the Commons, sent over to the Senate and sanctioned by that body and later in the day the bill was assented to by the deputy governor. The amount is therefore now available and will be forwarded at once. The government is in telegraphic communication regarding who it will be sent to although there is little doubt the Red Cross society will handle the money. The opposition in both houses as well as the government supported the grant.

Hon. Chas. Fitzpatrick will be appointed tomorrow chief justice of Canada and Hon. A. B. Aylesworth will take his place in the justice department. Hon. Lemieux, solicitor-general, will become Postmaster General. It is not announced who will take the solicitor-generalship.

The Sunday Glasgow bill was reported by the special committee. Among the things recommended being allowed to be performed on Sunday are maintaining fires for industries, work to supply water, gas and electricity, conveyance of mails and travellers, loading and unloading boats and trains of merchandise at intermediate points, clearing railway tracks of snow, work in railway yards and on government canals, operating passenger boats work for Monday newspapers after 8 p.m., Sunday night, delivery of milk and ice, performing domestic service, discharging and loading ocean boats to enable them to sail on schedule and inland craft to prevent their being caught by close or navigation. Hews and Seventh Day Adventists are allowed to work on Sunday provided they do not disturb others in their worship.

The report is accompanied by a recommendation from Mr. Fitzpatrick that Sunday transportation of grain trains east and empties west be allowed on Sundays from September fifteenth to the close of navigation and the railway commission will be given authority to make Sunday exceptions in regard to other railway work which they regard as necessary.

CURRENT COMMENT

"Saskatoonians" is the name applied to the residents of the Saskatchewan city by the Saskatoon Phoenix. And still Saskatoon has hopes.

An Ontario geologist wants the copper cents replaced by nickel coins. If this means that coppers should be replaced by nickels the proposal ought to be popular.

It is rumored that Gen. Stoessel and Admiral Nebogottoff have been court-martialed, the former for surrendering Port Arthur and the latter for giving up the remains of the fleet after the battle in the Sea of Japan. The choice appears to have been whether the Russian commanders preferred being shot by the Japs or by their own countrymen. Considering the comparative marksmanship, they made the worse choice.

Premier Scott suggests that the term "Northwest" as applied to Western Canada be abandoned, and the suggestion is strongly endorsed by the secretary of the Edmonton board of trade in a letter to the press. The term is in a sense a misnomer, is liable to misinterpretation by strangers and should probably therefore be dropped. But it was under this name that the Canadian west first came into prominence, and any mistaken inference which it may have originally given abroad has been obliterated by the splendid reputation which the country now enjoys throughout the world. Sentimental attachment to the term which has been changed from one of reproach to one of enviable and world-wide distinction will tend to perpetuate its usage among the people who have witnessed and assisted the change.

Mr. Foster is in trouble again. He says La Presse has called him a liar, a hypocrite, a coward and a hater of the French Canadians. These terms he claims do not apply and wants Parliament to turn out the militia or some other suitable embodiment of power and scare La Presse into silence. Just why the legislative or military machinery of the country should be brought into operation in such a case is not quite clear. The Canadian courts of justice are still open and an action for criminal libel remains the guardian of slandered innocence. Mr. Foster has not yet announced why he declines to undertake to prove the falsity of the alleged charges in the courts. Until he seeks justice by the ordinary means, Parliament might quite properly decline to exercise the means of emergency.

THE WEST IS NOT A PRESERVE

The opponents of the Hill system have developed a proprietary attitude toward Western Canada which will not be tolerated without protest in this country. The standpoint from which they have viewed the project has been essentially the eastern standpoint and their judgments have been formed purely from considerations of the supposed consequences to the transportation and commercial interests which centre in the cities of eastern Canada. The consequences of the construction of the line to the people of Western Canada have been usually ignored and when not ignored, have been depreciated as of secondary importance. That the new system would contribute to the welfare of Western Canada no one has had the hardihood to deny; but the ground has been taken that the welfare of the west was of less consequence than the maintenance of the western traffic to Canadian enterprises; and the proposal has been advanced that the legislative machinery of the country be called into play to preserve the absolute control of the traffic in the hands of those enterprises even at the sacrifice of the welfare of the west.

This sectional view of the project and the dictatorial tone in which it is advanced is all the more repugnant that it is neither called for nor warranted by the circumstances. If it were possible for Mr. Hill to construct a line through American territory to the sea which would provide a shorter route for western export trade there would at least be a shadow of reason for arguing that such a system would affect the vested interests of eastern Canadians. But it is a matter, not of argument, but of common knowledge that Mr. Hill can secure no such handicap over the Canadian roads. His proposed system is essentially a local and commercial system relying for through traffic on making connection with through routes, the shortest of which are and must be in the geography of things on Canadian soil or by Canadian waterways.

The opposition of Eastern journals to this system amounts to a lesser degree of reasonableness than would be displayed by Western papers in assailing the proposal of an American Company to construct a railway system through the Province of Ontario, on the ground that such system might deflect consignments of Ontario goods for the Orient from the Canadian routes which traverse the West and from the Canadian ports on the Pacific. For such American system might provide at least as short a route to American ports as the Canadian Pacific to Vancouver or the Grand Trunk Pacific to Port Simpson. However this might be if the western papers began any such campaign they would be promptly requested to confine their attention to their own affairs and leave the proposal in the hands of the people concerned. Similar salutary advice the people of the West would respectfully tender at the present juncture to the Ontario journals who would permit development in the West only on condition that the fruits of such development be forcibly conveyed on the coffer of eastern enterprises.

Western Canadians are neither open to assault on the ground of disloyalty to Canadian enterprises nor to the accusation of fostering division or antagonism between the interests of eastern and western Canada, but neither will they submit without protest to their country being considered a kind of territorial annex, whose destiny should be dictated by the journals of the eastern provinces and determined solely by the supposed welfare of those provinces. And their protests will be the more strenuous, when, as at present, the course prescribed by these self-constituted dictators calls for the sacrifice of the primary interests of the West for the supposed welfare of a single eastern commercial interest.

NATURAL RESOURCES AND PROVINCIAL REVENUE

The journals and the publicists of Ontario who lately concerned themselves so strenuously in telling Alberta and Saskatchewan what kind of provincial autonomy we ought to have are likely to find employment for their talents in solving another problem something along the same line but which affects them more vitally than the terms of the recent autonomy bills. The new problem is nothing less than a movement now gathering way among the people of the northern portion of the Province of Ontario to detach their districts from the older section and form a new Province. This movement is summarized in a recent special dispatch published in the Toronto Star, the important paragraphs of which are reproduced below:

Cobalt, May 25.—While minerals predominate in business and conversation, another question is taking shape, and before long will take definite form; and that question is the formation of a new province out of the present districts and the unorganized territory. No matter where you go in this northern country—Algoma, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay—in fact, anywhere—there is a great unrest amongst the people. Great things were expected from the Whitney Government, and the flourish of trumpets when the present administration came into power, forecasted better things for this north country. But all expectations have died out, and now the people will take action in the direction of inaugurating and building up a new province. The present Government was popular here at its inauguration, now its popularity is gone. In any legislation affecting this northland the legislators seem hopelessly at sea, simply because they do not or will not understand the conditions that prevail. The people who dwell here are not like those of Old Ontario. The ozone in this northern air gives a mental vigor and snap that the slower-going parts of the Province do not take into their consideration. The present Government in anything pertaining to the north have been hopeless blunderers. Locally the taking over of the Gillies limit was one of the most recent blunders. What has Old Ontario done for the northland that the Government should crush the endeavors of the people by taking away an asset that rightly belongs to the residents? Is a question the people are asking. Every endeavor of the people is met by a barrier erected by the Government. The Government are not legislating for this northland. They are simply legislating for the revenues they can extract from it.

This kind of treatment could only produce one result, and that is separation. All through this northland a movement is on foot for public meetings, and petitions to the Dominion Government that a new Province may rise in the north, where rules and laws to fit the conditions will take the place of the wretched system that now prevails. These people will be monkeyed with no longer, and Hon. J. P. Whitney need lose no sleep about how much of Keewatin the Province of Manitoba will get for an outlet to Hudson's Bay. Northern Ontario can take care of itself when it gets its vigorous limbs free.

It was the press of Ontario which instituted the campaign against the federal Government on the ground that the Autonomy Bills "robbed" Alberta and Saskatchewan of their natural resources, and it was to the Province of Ontario that the western opponents of the Government pointed for an illustration of the desirability of maintaining the lands and mines under provincial control. The former represented the Dominion Government as a cruel guardian robbing its wards of their rightful heritage; the latter taxed both their mathematical abilities and their poetic imaginations to picture the splendid revenues which Ontario derived from the administration of the public domain.

Now the particular ground of offence to the people of Northern Ontario is that their resources have been administered for the purpose of obtaining provincial revenue and not for the purposes of securing the speedy development of those resources, or of securing to the people who developed them the rewards of their labor. Nor is their complaint exclusively against the Whitney Government. They were dissatisfied also with the administration of the Ross Government, and if they are more dissatisfied now than formerly the difference is more in degree than in character. The ground of complaint is less the policy of the Ross Government or the Whitney Government, but the circumstances which forced both Governments to treat the northern district as a preserve from which to draw provincial funds. The weakness of the system of administering natural resources as a source of revenue is that the greater the revenue collected, the more impoverished are the pioneers from whom it is collected, and in consequence the greater the impediment to the development of the resources. If the protests from the northern districts of Ontario today are louder than before, it is because the tribute exacted from those districts today is heavier than before, and because there are more people in the districts to protest against their impoverishment.

HILL TALKS OF HIS PLANS

Outlines his Western Canadian Project in New York

A special despatch to the Seattle Times says: William E. Curtis, writing from New York to the Chicago Record-Herald concerning J. J. Hill and his new Canadian line, says:

"Mr. James J. Hill, the empire builder, of St. Paul, Minn., the other day and he told me he was going to start this summer on a new trunk line, or rather an extension of the Great Northern railroad, from Winnipeg to Vancouver, and he declared that he would build the entire distance without a single bond. A few months ago Mr. Hill announced that he was going to retire from active business life and turn the management of the Great Northern road over to his boys, two of whom are now directors in that company. He has made a similar announcement several times in years past, and I notice that on every occasion it has been followed by some great new enterprise which engaged all his talent and most of his time. His present retirement from active business means the construction of a new line parallel with his present system on the other side of the border, through the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. When Mr. Hill announces his retirement look out for big things. He has recently disclosed his intentions to the Canadians. He has written a letter to the Winnipeg board of trade promising to build a new system, a new trans-continental system through the Canadian Northwest which he hopes will further develop that city and the country from which its prosperity is drawn.

"Mr. Hill tells me that he has ordered 5000 tons of eighty-pound steel rails from the Dominion Iron Co. of Halifax and 25,000 tons from the Sault Iron Co. of Sault Ste Marie, which is enough to iron 250 miles of road.

"When I asked him for the route of his new Canadian road, Mr. Hill said he hadn't selected it, but believed that there is plenty of room for another track through the wheat fields on the Canadian side of the border. He has great faith in the future of Canada. He said that within the next few years there would be practically a single wheat field 500 miles square up yonder, yielding an average of twenty bushels to the acre, and another road will be needed to carry the crops to market. He will haul it not only to Duluth, but will turn over a part of his freight to the Grand Trunk at Winnipeg. The Canadian roads are not able to handle the crop now. Even in January, 1906, they were all handling the crop of 1904—just clearing it up. The wheat had been stored for a year and a half in the fields and in small elevators along the line. The Canadian Pacific cannot take it away from Georgian Bay as fast as it arrives there, and sometimes the whole road is blocked by cars. Mr. Hill's new road will furnish another outlet and take a share of the crop to Duluth, which has two months more of navigation and abundant facilities to handle any amount of grain.

"Because of the enormous immigration, chiefly from the United States which has gone into Manitoba, Saskatchewan during the last year, the crop will be nearly double in 1906, and it is estimated that within five years a thousand million bushels of grain will be raised in the belt between Winnipeg in the east and Calgary and Edmonton on the west, running northward 250 miles from the border. To carry away this crop the Grand Trunk Pacific is being built from Winnipeg northwestward to the ocean. The Canadian Northern is building up to Hudson's Bay, and a third road will parallel the Canadian Pacific, which now has a monopoly in the lower wheat belt along the southern border.

"If you will observe a map of the Great Northern railway you will notice that Mr. Hill already has a line from Spokane to Vancouver and another from Vancouver to Everett and Seattle. These will be part of the Canadian system. You will also notice that the road has a lot of spurs like the teeth of a comb running northward from the main line to the Canadian border, thus giving plenty of cross-cuts for the handling of freight.

"Mr. Hill also tells me that he has secured plenty of land for terminals at both ends of the line and has purchased a large tract at Medicine Hat, a station on the Canadian Pacific, on the western boundary of Saskatchewan, about two-thirds of the way from Winnipeg to Vancouver, where the repair shops for this branch of the Great Northern railway will be located. His agents have also filed plans of the line for a distance of 100 miles east and 200 miles west of Medicine Hat as required by the laws of Canada. The rest of the line has not been located, but the engineers are in the field all the way from Winnipeg westward. Construction will be commenced during the present summer."

RAN AWAY WITH AN ENGINE

Jiminez, Mexico, May 28. — Joe Larceny, an American passenger conductor, for the Mexican Central Railroad, has just made one of the most daring escapes ever known. He shot a Mexican at a dance here a few days ago. He then fled up the Mexican Central track six miles, where he flagged a northbound passenger train. Six Mexican police from Jiminez were on the train expected that he would try to make his escape in such a manner. They ordered Larceny to surrender, but instead of obeying the command he drew his revolver upon the Mexican police and ordered them off the train. They got off and walked back to town. Larceny took possession of the engine and cut it loose from the train, and Engineer George Dempsey was forced to remain at the throttle. The two men then began a wild ride toward the Texas border, 370 miles distant. The train dispatcher was advised that the engine was running wild and the track was cleared. Running records on the Mexican Central were smashed. Larceny took to the cactus-covered desert at a point south of Juarez and is supposed to be safe on the other side of the

THE GUATEMALAN REVOLUTION. Mexico City, May 29.—General Huert, commanding one detachment of the Guatemalan revolutionists, after taking the city of Ocas, was forced to retire before a superior force. He is now reported to have taken a new base and will be reinforced tonight by several hundred good fighting men from the steamer Empire City.

General Barillas is in the mountains making his way to Quetzaltenango. Barillas has with him a fine body of picked men, and he is reported to be actually recruiting his force. No news has been received from Salvador, but the invading force should by this time be well advanced into Guatemala.

Residents state that the whole country is ripe for the overthrow of Cabrera. The season of rains has set in, and the roads are bad in Guatemala. Telegraphic communication is difficult owing to the cutting of the wires on the Guatemalan side.

How Sherring Won the Marathon Race

Here is the story of the Marathon race as told by William H. Sherring: "On the night of April 30, all the English and colonial contestants drove to Marathon. We arrived there at 8.30 and found out that the best accommodation we could get was to sleep on the floor. The result was that I did not get a wink of sleep, and I do not believe that any of the other boys did. As the race did not start until 5 o'clock, we had considerable time to kill.

"Fifty eight men started. There were three rows of fifteen men each, and thirteen in the last row. I was number 56, and of course was placed in the last row. Sharp at 5 o'clock before the starting shot was fired, the men got off to a false start and we were delayed five minutes.

"Among the starters were Blake, of Australia; Daly, Cormack and Keenan, of England; two Swedes, three Frenchmen, including Champion, a regatta, an Italian 25-mile champion, two Germans, an Egyptian, an Australian, about 30 Greeks, Spring, Fowler, Frank and Forsah, of the United States and myself. Elwood Hughes did not start, but aided me in every way possible. He was with me about ten minutes before the race, when he wheeled out and waited for me about four miles from the start. We were not allowed to have pace makers, so he stayed behind me and carried an orange and my water bottle. Several times when climbing a hill, he was unable to keep up to me, and I believe was just as tired as I was at the finish. I took only two drinks of water during the entire race, one after running ten miles and the other about five miles from the finish. I ate part of the orange shortly after we started, and that was all the nourishment I had.

"A Greek army officer started the race and Blake of Australia, and Daly of England took the lead. I made up my mind that I would not hit up a killing pace like I did in the Boston race in 1900, and I worked my way up to sixth place and was contented to stay there until my turn to go to the front came. Mike Spring was running beside me, and seemed to be taking every step with an effort. He told me he did not think I could run so fast, and when after running eight miles I told him that I was going to start to let out, he gave a sigh and dropped back. Blake and Daly covered the first five miles in thirty minutes and the first ten miles in fifty-six minutes. I was about half a mile behind them at the ten mile post, and was running at sixth place, Blake Daly, Frank, Swamberg and Regineaux, the Frenchman, being ahead of me. After running 11 miles I passed Frank and Swamberg and conquered Daly a half mile further on. Blake the Australian, was the only one ahead of me now, and as I passed about the half-mile post, he shook my hand and said good-bye. As soon as I passed, both Blake and Daly started to walk, and at the 15-mile post, I was a mile in the lead.

"I then began to slow down a little, and after running eighteen miles I walked half a mile.

"As soon as Frank and Swamberg came into view I started to run again, and I never saw them again until after the race. I will never forget the scene as we approached the stadium. For about seven miles from the finish I had been pelted on each side with masses of humanity, and every one seemed to have a bouquet for me. In fact I was literally running on a path of flowers. Two miles from the finish a cannon was shot off to announce my approach and it nearly scared the life out of me, as I was not expecting any such noise at that stage of the game. As I entered the stadium 15,000 people stood up and cheered and I was the recipient of thirty bouquets. Prince George met me at the entrance to the stadium, and ran to the finish with me, after which I shook me before the king of Greece and I was soon surrounded by an enthusiastic mob, and many of the women blessed me.

"It was about as tired as I cared to be at the finish, but able to put up a good enough struggle to prevent the people from stealing my clothes for souvenirs.

Archibald of Toronto, met me at the finish and accompanied me while I took a hot bath, after which I dressed and went back to the stadium to see some of the competitors finish." Here is the order in which the first six men finished.

Sherring, Canada.....	251.23.2-5
Swamberg, Sweden.....	258.25
Frank, United States.....	259.01
Sweden.....	3.04.00
Greece.....	3.07.00
Blake, Australia.....	3.07.00

"There were men finishing an hour after I did, mostly Greeks, who would not give in till the last stride was made. That night a bouquet was given by the king of Greece to all the winning athletes and every one seemed to be glad that a Canuck had captured the feature event of the Olympic games. The day following the race the English, Canadian and Australian athletes were entertained at a dinner at the residence of Sir Francis Elliott, the British ambassador at Athens.

"Nobody now how many lonesome days I put in before the Toronto boys arrived. Of course there are a number of English speaking people in Athens, but they were always busy, so that all I could do was go through my training stunts each day and then sit down and wonder what my friends 7,000 miles away were doing. When the Toronto boys arrived things appeared a little brighter to me, but even then I often got lonesome.

"The bill of fare at my boarding house was a slim one. Beefsteak was not known and about all the meat we got was a slice of goat's meat in a white. We had to drink goat's milk and practically live on Greek bread. I was unable to eat at first, and often wonder how I ever kept in condition with such rations. My stomach was never out of condition from the time I left home, however, either on land or sea. We had a couple of rough days on the Mediterranean, but I stood it like a major, and was one of a very few who were not sick."

"Were you at all nervous during the race?" Sherring was asked.

"Not after I had covered five miles. I told Hughes that I would let him know at that point what my chances were, and I told him I was feeling fine and would win. Mike Spring heard the remark and gave a little smile, but it was not the smile that won't come off, for when I walked into the quarters of the American runners that night, all four of the Marathon men were in bed with cracked legs on their heads and pretty nearly all in. Mike said to me: 'Sammy Mellor told me that you were the hardest man on earth to beat, but I never thought you could do what you did today. You are the king of the bunch now, Bill, and we must all acknowledge that that you have it on us.'"

"Were you not afraid of the Greeks?" "Well you just bet I was. There was only one that appeared a hard proposition, and the way he ran in his trials made me think that he was going to be my hardest competitor. His name was Koukalas, or something like that, but it was changed to 'must' shortly after the race started as he was never a contender."

"Is it so that you had two offers of marriage?" was the next question put to Sherring.

"That yarn was all newspaper talk. It is true that some of the women made a great deal of me, but no one mentioned marriage to me. The Greek women are rather pretty, but are very dark and smoke cigarettes, which habit rather disgusted me."

Sherring brought very few of his many presents with him. In fact about all he brought was a gold medal presented to him by King George of Greece. The statue of Minerva will be forwarded to him later by the king of Greece, who personally promised to see that everything was sent in first-class style. Besides the statue of Minerva he was presented with several handsome cups. Each municipality and many private citizens of Greece gave a present of some kind, all of which will be collected and forwarded by the king.

He was made an honorary citizen of Greece, the first time the title was ever bestowed on a foreigner.

He had a hard time saving his running suit from the souvenir fiends. They grabbed for his hat, sweater and even his shoes.

BEWARE OF "WOODEN NUTMEGS."

THIS is an age of imitations! The symbol of the period should be the "Wooden Nutmeg."

Every sincerely good and reliable article of commerce has today a score of deceptive substitutes poaching upon its market. And, if the substitutes were as good as the originals they would not need to imitate the outward appearance of these originals, but could create a market of their own, on merit.

The Maker of a sound, and reliable article makes it sound and reliable so as to deserve, and hold, a future market.

The Maker of a substitute for that article makes it for present profit only—to trade upon the goodness of the original.

He has nothing at stake for the future, and his policy is to give you the shell without the kernel—the appearance without the value.

Some Shoe Retailers prefer selling "long-profit" shoes to selling "The Slater Shoe" which is price-controlled by the Makers.

But, don't forget that the Slater Shoe is priced by the Makers to prevent your being over-charged when you buy them.

Look for the Slater frame and the Makers' price, $4.00 or $5.00 on the lining.

Winnipeg Free Press: A meeting of the executive committee of the Western Canada Immigration association was held this morning at Mariag's hotel to pass on the proffered resignation of Mr. Theodore Knappan as secretary. Mr. Knappan stated that on account of certain business connections he desired to form, his resignation was tendered, and he added that he wished its acceptance at the earliest possible moment. After discussing the matter at length the committee voted not to accept Mr. Knappan's resignation, but decided to request him to remain as secretary and to engage the services for the promotion of western Canada's interests, of the well-known journalist, Mr. Herbert Vanderhoof. Mr. Vanderhoof is on the staff of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, and has achieved an enviable reputation as the narrator of western Canadian development and is now publishing a series of widely read articles on the western states. Mr. Vanderhoof will at once enter upon his work in the western Canadian field. Mr. Knappan stated that there is no truth in the report that he has accepted a position with the Canadian Pacific railway.

SCHOOL LANDS SOLD HIGH.

Saskatoon Phoenix.—"I wish we had some more lands to sell you people, its such a pleasure to sell land here." This was the remark dropped by Mr. W. M. Ingram, commissioner of school lands, at the conclusion of the sale this morning.

Little more than half an hour was necessary to dispose of the half-section of school lands comprised of the north half of section 29, township 36, range 5, west of the 3rd meridian, and adjoining Saskatoon on the west. The 320 acres were divided in eight legal sub-divisions of 40 acres each, with the exception of parcel 13, ten acres of which the Saskatoon Council asked to have put up separately to be bought and used for cemetery purposes.

The greatest interest, of course, centered in the sale of the half-section adjoining Saskatoon and the bidding on this was spirited, the highest priced block going to Frank S. Cahill, of Cahill and Telford, who paid $515 an acre for sub-division fourteen, or $20,600 for the 40 acres.

Of the 320 acres sold Dr. J. H. C. Wiloughby was the purchaser of sub-divisions four, eleven, twelve and thirteen, comprising 160 acres or just half the entire block, and for this 160 acres he pays $30,600, or an average of $247.50 an acre.

Mr. T. Copland paid $400 an acre for sub-division six. J. Wiloughby of Winnipeg got sub-division three, for which he paid $515 an acre. Edmund B. Ross got sub-division five at $325. The total amount brought by the half-section was $98,200, or an average of about $315 per acre.

When Mr. Ingram announced that a ten-acre parcel was being offered separately to give the Council a chance to buy it for cemetery purposes, Dr. J. H. C. Wiloughby rose and said that if the Council really intended to use it for a cemetery he would bid against it but if they would use it for any other purpose as far as he was concerned he would let them have it without opposition.

Councillor Copland explained that the request for the parcel was made a couple of years ago, but since then the town had grown so rapidly that conditions were somewhat changed. It was on the request of two years ago that the present action was being taken.

It was ruled by those in charge of the sale that if the Council made the purchase they must use the land as a cemetery, and as a result the bidding was general. The upset price was $100 an acre and when the bidding approached $200, Mayor Clinkskill, for the city dropped out and the parcel went to Dr. Wiloughby at $330 an acre.

Section 29-36-6 was sold, going in quarter lots. The northwest quarter went to Mr. Sam Pollock, of Smithville at $27.50 per acre; J. Alexander got the northeast quarter at $28 an acre; J. T. Affleck paid $16 for the southeast quarter and C. D. Ferguson took the southwest quarter at $20.25.

—J. L. Lessard, who has been keeping a trading post at Lac La Biche for nearly a year, returned to the city yesterday, and is the guest of his brother, P. E. Lessard. He will leave shortly to spend the summer in the eastern provinces. Mr. Lessard said that last winter proved to be a most successful season in the fur trade at Lac La Biche, and a large business was done at his post. The country around Lac La Biche, he said, was looking exceptionally fine this spring, and the roads were in splendid condition.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Sugden, Queen's avenue, was Thursday night the scene of a very pleasant little function when the many young men who have for a long time past been boarding there, took advantage of the opportunity offered by Mr. and Mrs. Sugden's retiring from the boarding house business, to show their appreciation of the kindness that has been extended to them, by presenting Mrs. Sugden with a very nice quartered oak hall rack. The presentation was made in the parlor where the many boarders were gathered preparatory to partaking their last meal at their old home. Mr. Harold W. Riley, Deputy Provincial Secretary, made the presentation on behalf of the boarders, and in a few well chosen words he very feelingly thanked Mrs. Sugden for that kind and motherly treatment that it had always been their privilege to enjoy at her hands, and asked her to accept the gift which he now offered to her on behalf of the boarders, with the assurance that it was but a very slight token of the appreciation which they all felt towards her. Mr. Riley closed his remarks by expressing the hope, that relieved of the arduous duties to which she had been subjected in the past, she would soon regain her old time health and enjoy many years of happiness.

JOHN CALHOUN IS ALDERMAN.

Calhoun	188
McLennan	187
Semerad	146
Spoiled	4

GRAND LODGE MEETS IN EDMONTON.

Local lodges of the Independent Order of Oddfellows throughout the province have received notice from the Grand Master, Chas. Comer, of Calgary that the grand lodge of the order meets in Edmonton on August 7th and 8th of this year in their second annual convention.

At the first grand lodge meeting, which was held in Calgary last year it was decided to hold the convention this year in Edmonton on June 28th, but as that date so nearly clashes with the fair, the grand council decided to postpone it until August. There will be over 100 delegates present at the meeting here representing lodges in all parts of the province. Alex May, of Edmonton, is deputy grand master. W. A. Dale, noble grand, R. L. Haskill, vice grand, and P. A. Lloyd secretary of the local lodge will have to carry out the arrangements for the entertainment of the guests. The delegates will be met at the hotel.
